DEATH'S DOINGS.

MINARD.

Hon. N. P. Minard, one of our oldest, best known and highly respected citizens passed to the other side Monday p. m., in his 88th year. The death of Judge Minard removes one of our most well known citizens. We have always respected deceased and greatly enjoyed his frequent visits to our sanctum; in fact we always looked forward to his social calls, they always covered the early days of this section. Judge Minard was born in a small house situated near the Robt. McDowell residence, Portage. In those days that part of Cameron was in McKean county. He was for many years, actively engaged in lumbering and knew every foot of the river from this place to Port Deposit; was reliable authority upon all such matters and could relate thousands of interesting yarns. Our readers will remember the interesting story published in the Press about two years ago, from the pen of D. C. Hayes' brother, relating that raftsmen contend with in those days.

Deceased was born May 5, 1823. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his death, viz: David, Rutland, Vt.; Fred and Harry, Clarks, La.; Mrs. Marie Pierce, Oil City; Moses and George, who reside here, and twenty-five grand-children and nine great-grand children.

Judge Minard was of the old school Democratic stock and served this county as county treasurer, associate judge and many township offices. In early 60's he became a member of the Emporium Masonic Lodge and his lodge will convene a Lodge of Sorrow on Friday at 12:30 and proceed to the home on the Portage, where the funeral services will be held. Interment in Newton Cemetery.

GLENN.

JOHN GLENN, another highly respected citizen, died at the family home on East Allegheny Avenue, last Thursday morning about nine o'clock, after a lingering illness of several years. The cause of his death was stomach trouble, and during all his illness he has been most patient, bearing his affliction with the fortitude of a true Christian. Deceased was born in Ireland in 1852 and came to this country and settled in Emporium in 1869. Mr. Glenn was twice married, the first wife being Miss Mary Welsh, a sister of Mr. Jas. J. Welsh, of this place, who died within a year of the marriage and is buried at Corning, N. Y. Later he was united in marriage to Miss Anna Murray, who with five children survive the husband and father. The surviving children are the Misses Margaret, Nellie and Jane and Masters Charles and John. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Margaret Murray, the only remaining member of the family. Deceased was for thirty-seven years a faithful employee of the Emporium Tanning Company and for the past several years has been the tax-collector of Emporium, having been elected to this office without opposition. He was very faithful to the trust. The funeral took place on Monday morning at nine o'clock from St. Mark's Catholic Church and was very largely attended, the large edifice being nearly filled with friends and relatives of the deceased. High Mass was celebrated, the Rev. Father Downey being celebrant. Father Downey paid a high tribute to the life of the departed. Interment was made in St. Mark's Cemetery. The casket bearers were Hon. F. X. Blumie, Messrs. M. T. Hogan, John Welsh, A. A. McDonald, R. Seger and A. F. Vogt. The C. M. B. A., of which order deceased was a very active member, attended the funeral in a body. Mr. Bernard Egan had charge of the funeral. Mrs. Ella Robinson and Mr. Thomas Cavanaugh, of St. Marys, were in attendance at the funeral.

PONGER.

Dennis F. Ponger, aged 31 years, died at St. Vincent's Hospital at Erie from the effects of typhoid fever last Monday morning at three o'clock.

Deceased was admitted to the hospital Feb. 18th. The body was prepared for burial and was brought to Emporium, arriving here on train No. 54 at eleven o'clock Monday evening and was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Clara McCool. Deceased is survived by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Songer of this place and the following brothers and sisters: Messrs. Bert, New Bethlehem, Pa.; George, Kushqua, Pa.; Morris, Indianapolis, Ind. John, Farmington, N. H.; Fred, Kane; and Mrs. Anna Clara McCool of this place and Mrs. Anna Maher of Clarion. The funeral took place this (Thursday) morning from the home of his sister and proceeded to St. Mark's Catholic church, where High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father T. B. Downey. Interment was made in St. Mark's cemetery. All the brothers and sisters were present at the funeral except John, who was unable to get here; The Press extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.

With the Oranges and Palms.

Hon. B. W. Green left on Monday for Emporia, Fla., to spend several weeks, visiting with friends and enjoying the oranges, sunshine and looking to this orange grove, which is one of the most productive in that region. King Pedro, no doubt will receive considerable attention and J. P. Felt, Dr. DeLong and Thos. Gallagher will keep him busy, no doubt. But woe to the chap who trumps his partners ace Wow! Wow!

Miss Alice Montgomery, the Judge's niece, accompanied him as far as Harrisburg, where she will visit Mr. and Mrs. Warren Libe—Mrs. Libe, (nee Miss Mary Schreff) having visited here in the past and will be pleasantly remembered by many of our citizens.

An Hour for Young People.

An Hour Service will be held in the Parish House on every Saturday at four o'clock. The Junior Choir is expected to attend, vest in the Church, and march over to the Parish House. This service will be suitable for young people and all young people of the community are cordially invited to attend. Every child who attends every Saturday Lenten Service will receive a picture of some bible scene or character.

A Son.

Announcement has been made of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Coveney, of Oil City, Pa., on Saturday, February 25th. Mrs. Coveney was formerly Miss Mayme McCabe, of this place. The little youngster has been named George Robert. We extend congratulations to the happy parents.

Sleigh Ride.

Last Thursday evening, the Union Friendly Society enjoyed a sleigh ride to Howard Siding. Although only about one-half of the members were able to attend yet the evening was a very enjoyable one. After the return to Emporium a three course luncheon was served at the parlors of Seger & Co.

Afternoon at Cards.

Last Friday afternoon, Mrs. Robert B. Warner entertained several lady friends at cards at her pleasant home on West Fourth street. Mrs. E. E. Forbes was awarded first prize and Mrs. Leon R. Felt received the consolation prize. An elaborate course dinner was served by the hostess. It was a very pleasant affair.

A New Druggist.

Mr. Frank Cormery, of Lancaster, Pa., has accepted the position as druggist at the store of Mr. Geo. C. Taggart. Mr. Cormery is a registered druggist having graduated from the New York College of Pharmacy, at New York City. He arrived in town last Thursday.

A Monster Engine.

One of the monster engines built at Altoona shops recently arrived in Emporium for use on the Buffalo division. Last Saturday the big engine drew seven loaded cars from Shippen to Port Allegany, a distance of 19 miles, in 19 minutes. Going some, that.

Found.

If the party who advertised for a lost pocket-book (lady's) in the Press some time ago will call at this office we can give them some information regarding the same.

Special Sale.

Special Sale, commencing on Thursday and continuing on Friday and Saturday, at which time all embroideries and laces will be sold at reduced prices.

BISHOP OF ERIE CONSECRATED.

Many Episcopal Dignitaries Assist in Full Ritualistic Ceremony at Scranton.

SCRANTON, PA., FEB. 24.—Rev. Rogers Israel, D. D., for eighteen years rector of St. Luke's Church, was this morning consecrated first bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Erie. The ceremony took place in St. Luke's Church, where gathered the largest assemblage of bishops, clergy and laymen ever within its walls.

Venerable Reginald S. Radcliffe, Archdeacon of the Diocese of Erie, was master of ceremonies in charge of the arrangements attending the consecration, the first service of the day being at 7 o'clock and Rev. Samuel Marquis, D. D., rector of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, Detroit, being the celebrant. He was assisted by Rev. W. E. Van Dyke, of Smethport, Pa., as gospeller; Rev. E. A. Gerran, of Towanda as epistolar and Rev. Roy I. Murray, of St. Luke's, Scranton, as server.

At 9 o'clock the service of matins was said, Right Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, D. D., LL.D., officiating, presiding as bishop of the Diocese of Bethlehem. He was assisted by Rev. W. E. Reilly, D. D., of Oil City, Pa., and Rev. W. H. Jones, D. D., of Warren, Pa., both of the Diocese of Erie; Archdeacon D. Webster Cox, rector of St. James, New Milford, Pa., and Rev. S. Perry, D. D., of Newcastle, Pa.

LAY MEMBERS HAVE PART.

The high celebration of the Holy Eucharist and the consecration of Bishop-elect Rogers Israel followed at 10:30 o'clock. The procession of the bishops and clergy in full vestments included also the lay members of the standing committees of both the Bethlehem and Erie Dioceses. These were:—

Erie Diocese—Major Reynolds, of Erie; Colonel E. V. Seidon, of Oil City; Joseph Kaye, of Emporium; H. K. Gregory, of Newcastle; treasurer of the diocese, Turner W. Shacklett; chancellor, A. R. Osborne and Josiah Howard, of Emporium.

Bethlehem Diocese—Major Everett Warren, of Scranton; Edward G. Mercur, of Towanda; Guy E. Farquhar, of Pottsville; A. N. Cleaver, of Wilkes-Barre, and J. N. Welch, of Honesdale.

Rev. Martin Aigner, of Franklin Pa., and Rev. Horace E. Hayden, of St. Stephen's, Wilkes-Barre, were the attending presbyters to the bishop-elect.

The Litany of the service was sung by Rev. Dr. G. H. Sterling, of South Bethlehem. Right Rev. Cortland Whitehead, S. T. D., Bishop of Pittsburgh, was the consecrating bishop, the co-consecrators being Bishop Talbot and Bishop Boyd Vincent, of Southern Ohio. Bishop R. Seldon Lloyd, president of the Board of Missions, preached the sermon of the day.

The presiding bishops were Right Rev. Charles Tyler Olmstead, D. D., of Central New York, and Right Rev. James Henry Darlington, D. D., of Harrisburg. Rev. F. T. Cady, of Port Allegany, Pa., secretary of the diocese of Erie read the certificate of election; the canonical testimonial was read by Josiah Howard; the certificate of ordination by Rev. E. E. Maderia, of Titusville, Pa.; the consent of the Standing Committee by Rev. W. S. Jones, D. D., rector of St. Paul's, Erie, and the consent of the bishops by Bishop Olmstead.

Following the consecration the visiting bishops, clergy and laymen were entertained in the parish house. This evening the people of Scranton tendered a farewell reception to Bishop Israel, who leaves to-morrow morning for Erie.

One of the guests of honor of the service was Right Rev. Francis Hodur, D. D., bishop of the Polish National Catholic Church, who attended with his chaplain and during the service was given a place of unusual honor for a prelate of another church.

The newly-created diocese of Erie was erected out of territory which comprised practically the northern half of the diocese of Pittsburgh. It includes the counties of Erie, Crawford, Warren, McKean, Mercer, Lawrence, Venango, Forest, Elk, Cameron, Clarion, Jefferson and Clearfield.

WELL-KNOWN CHURCHMAN.

Bishop Israel is well known to church people throughout the country for the active part he has taken in the work of the general convention of the Episcopal Church. He was born in Baltimore, September 14, 1854, and came of an Maryland family.

He was educated by private tutors and after spending five years in business entered Dickinson College, from which he received the degree of A. B., in 1881, when he entered the ministry of the Methodist Church and was appointed to the charge of Tabernacle Methodist Church at Norfolk, Va. Three years later he joined the Episcopal Church, to the ministry of which he was ordained by Bishop Whitehead in 1886.

He soon became one of the most active and prominent clergymen of the diocese of Pittsburgh and was rewarded with many positions of honor and trust. He was elected a member of the Standing Committee of the diocese and a deputy to successive general conventions.

After a most successful directorate of more than seven years in Christ Church, Meadville, Pa., he was unanimously called to the rectorship of St. Luke's, Scranton, in 1892.

Marriage Announcement.

Cards were received in Emporium yesterday from Mrs. Charles Melvin Thomas announcing the marriage of her daughter Nelle Blanche to Mr. Hubert Andrew Brady, on Tuesday, Feb. 28th, at West Pittston, Pa. The wedding was a surprise to the very many friends of the popular young couple at this place. The bride is the second daughter of Mrs. Charles M. Thomas, while the groom is the eldest son of Mr. Andrew Brady. Both are popular members of our younger set and highly respected. The Press wishes them much happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Brady will be at home to their friends after March 15th, at Emporium. They will be welcomed home.

Emporium Furnace.

The remodeling of Emporium Furnace, making it now equal if not superior to any plant in the country, is rapidly nearing completion and it is the desire of Mr. Andrew Brady to light the fires this month if possible.

Col. Brady, who has personally rebuilt the plant at a cost nearing the $100,000 mark, is certainly to be commended. His reputation as an Iron Master is one of the best in the land and we hope his fond expectations may be realized.

The brick crew under Chas. A. Bell, of Lebanon, who bricked the original plant, is rushing the re-lining, having a large crew of expert men at work.

When the new whistle, the large one that used to be on Howard & Co's mill, toots the glad tidings, we should all give the master mind, Col. Andrew Brady, a serenade.

Kautz—Kester.

Miss Myrtle Kautz, daughter of Mrs. A. E. Gross, of this place, and Mr. George Kester, of Buffalo, N. Y., were quietly married at Niagara Falls last Thursday, Feb. 23rd. Mrs. Kester, having spent her entire life in Emporium, has many friends. She is an ideal young lady of many sterling qualities. Mr. Kester is in the employ of the P. R. R. Company and is an ambitious young man, being employed as a fireman and making a run between Buffalo and Emporium. We have not learned which end of the trip the happy couple will make their home, but we hope that they will reside in Emporium. The Press joins with their many friends in extending best wishes.

Board of Trade.

The executive committee of Board of Trade met at Club Rooms last evening, with Judge LaBar, president and C. Jay Goodnough, secretary in attendance. Important matters are receiving attention and the public will receive timely and due notice, as soon as practicable.

Improving.

Mr. A. C. Blum, who recently returned home from Chicago, suffering from an attack of grip and heart trouble, is now slowly improving. He passed a very restless night last night, but this morning we are pleased to state his condition shows improvement.

Afternoon Tea.

Mrs. Joseph Burnett entertained several lady friends at an afternoon tea party at her pleasant home on West Sixth street, on Wednesday, at four o'clock. A unique spread was served and the ladies had an enjoyable time.

Rooms for Rent.

Furnished rooms, single or en suite Mrs. Seth J. Hackett, over East Emporium Post Office.

Announced at Last.

Invitations are issued for the marriage of our townsman, Mr. George A. Walker, secretary and treasurer of the Mt. Hope Coal and Coke Co., to Miss Frances Fisher Cordie of Titusville, the ceremony to take place on March 15th. The bride has visited here several times while her brother, C. H. Cordie, was located in Emporium, when she was guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seger. The groom, who has resided here since childhood, and identified with several industries, and a good business man and gentleman. The Press and his many friends congratulate Mr. Walker in capturing such an excellent lady and feel like extending the glad hand to the fair lady who caused the arrow to strike the bull's eye just as George was gradually nearing the danger line. May their future be full of happiness and one long continued honeymoon, is the wish of the Press.

Then and Now.

Forty-three years ago Tuesday our venerable friend, M. Blodgett, of Sinaamahoning, wrote from his camp, then located at Camp de Beck, Clearfield county, nine miles from Curwensville. The weather in those days was severe, as will be seen from the following extract from Mr. Blodgett's letter: "The weather is very cold and has been all winter; snow is only three feet and five inches deep now and still snowing very fast." Weather prophet A. E. Gross can now compare his records and give the cause of less snow at present.

Linen Shower.

Last Monday evening the Misses Elsie and Hilda Kuehne, entertained a small party of friends at a linen shower, at their pleasant home on Fourth street, in honor of Miss Elizabeth Crandell. Miss Crandell was the recipient of many beautiful pieces of linen. Progressive hearts were played in which Miss Helen Smutz and Mr. Edwin B. McKee were awarded first prizes and Miss Ethel Turley and Mr. W. S. Sterner captured the consolation prizes. A delicious luncheon was served. Those present besides the above mentioned guests were Misses Margaret Crandell, Julia Bair and Edna Clark and Messrs. Max F. Balcom, Arthur R. Catlin, Allan S. Randolph, Richard Kuehne, Dawson Wright and Carl W. Swanson.

Returns From City.

Mr. R. Kuehne, the ever active Fourth street merchant, returned from New York city, Philadelphia and Buffalo last Monday, where he made many excellent bargains, all of which he will offer his trade. His large advertisement in this issue is a fore-runner of what his patrons may expect—the latest in dry goods, silks, ladies' wear, etc. Mr. Kuehne's long experience admirably fits him for the difficult task of selecting what will suit his customers' taste; as well as their pocket books. His large establishment is very attractive. Call and see his beautiful goods.

Entertained Class.

Miss Pearl Millin, with the assistance of Mrs. Geo. P. Jones, entertained the members of the Junior Class of Shippen High School at the home of the latter last Thursday evening. A very elaborate three course luncheon was served. Miss Millin proved herself a most delightful hostess. Those present were the Misses Belle Uray, Lena Kinsler, Lena Zwald, and Bessie Van Wert.

A Meeting for Men Only.

A meeting for men only will be held in the Parish House on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. This meeting will be a free service. It will consist of a scripture lesson, prayers, hymns, and an address by the Rector on the theme, "The Possibility of Living Aright Anywhere." All men are invited to attend.

Coming.

Dr. C. A. Barron, of Williamsport, will be at the City Hotel, Emporium, on Tuesday, March 7th. Consultation in the hotel parlor. Diseases of ear, eye, nose and throat.

Thanks.

We desire to thank our friends and neighbors and the C. M. B. A., for their kindness shown to us during the long illness and at the time of the death of our husband and father.

Washington's Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Holley Baird of Sinaamahoning, entertained about thirty five guests at a party in honor of Washington's Birthday. The evening was pleasantly spent in contests suitable for the occasion, which was followed by a bountiful repast. All the rooms were tastefully decorated. Mr. Baird acted as toastmaster and the following responded to toasts: Mr. Chas. Council, "The Ladies"; Mrs. Haskins, "The Gentlemen"; Mrs. Ann Fulton, "Martha Washington"; Dr. C. W. Gray, "George Washington"; Mr. A. W. Phillips gave the personalities of each guest present. It was indeed a pleasant evening and Mr. and Mrs. Baird proved themselves very able entertainers.

Progressive Hearts.

Miss Irene Webster very pleasantly entertained a party of friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Mead Floyd, last Monday evening. The evening was spent in playing progressive hearts. Harry Karft was the recipient of the first prize and William Howard, Jr., captured the consolation prize. At the conclusion of the games elegant refreshments were served. Those present were: Misses Marguerite Williams, Belle Campbell, Carolyn Moore, Gladys Lloyd, Jessie Moran, Ina Hopple, Carrie Baker, Florence Lingle, Messrs. William Howard, J. Harry Hogan Roy Swanson, Gordon Vogt, Gordon McDonough, Joe McNarney, Harry Kraft and Earl McDougall.

MOVE IS RIGHT STEP

IDEA OF TARIFF COMMISSION A GOOD ONE.

Possibility That by This Means Question Can Be Taken Out of Politics and Solved in a Manner Satisfactory to All.

There is now a good prospect that a tariff commission will be authorized that may be of incalculable service in securing a revision of the tariff without disturbance to business and with the nearest practicable approach to justice all around.

The bill as it stood has been modified in two regards. It has been provided that either house of congress may call on the commission for such information as may be desired and that of the five members of the commission not more than three shall be of the same political party. These modifications should remove the objections of the Democrats to the measure. The first places the commission fully at their disposal in the next congress when they will have the responsibility for the action of the house. The second gives them a fair representation on the commission, and entirely insures them against any partisan use of the commission. The committee on rules has been instructed to bring in the bill for action as soon as possible. The sooner the better, for prompt action by the house will make the chances of the commission better in the senate.

We are not of those who believe that the commission can solve the long-standing and complicated problems involved in a revision of our fiscal system in a single session. Nor is any such view entertained by the able business men who have been laboring for several years to promote the adoption of the commission principle. Their purpose has been to secure the employment of a board of sensible and impartial men, qualified by experience and study, and clothed with reasonable powers, to inquire into the practical operation of the various duties imposed by the tariff and to continue the inquiry for the enlightenment of congress, the executive and the public. It is not their idea to make a commission to bolster up the tariff or to batter it down. The cardinal principle of protection or of free trade is not involved at all. The whole plan simply relates to method and will necessarily be of as much advantage to honest men on one side of the question as to those on the other.

If, then, as is plain, the country is ready for a revision, surely it is the duty of all reasonable men to prepare the way for it so that it shall do as much good and as little harm as possible. Toward this the tariff commission, as devised in the bill now pending, is unquestionably an aid. It will not take the tariff out of politics, for it cannot, but it will tend to make it an issue of practical, businesslike, intelligent political action. It will tend to prevent it being made, as it has been in the past, a matter for truck and dicker, for indirect bribery and corruption. At one time it was suspected that a commission would serve as an excuse for delay and would be used as a means to mislead public opinion, but the amendments we have outlined are evidences of good faith, and the measure now seems to be quite free from objection. If a good commission is selected, and we have confidence in the sagacity and sincerity of President Taft in this regard, it will be what may be called a measure of national sanitation, and heaven knows that it is needed. There has never been in the twisted and tangled history of our tariff an instance of a measure supported by so many and varying interests involved in tariff legislation, which is another proof of the need of sanitation and of the probability that we shall get it through this method.—New York Times.

The Best Farm Markets Safe.
Reciprocity with Canada could never interfere with the success of agriculture in any part of the United States. It could not touch the markets which are most profitable to American farmers, gardeners, and orchard owners.

The most profitable markets for the food products which pay best are the near markets. They are great cities in this country of big and fast-growing urban centers, and few of the large cities are close enough to Canada to give Canadian food products an equal chance with those grown in the United States. Distance will always give American producers an advantage in the markets of American cities.

The exceptions to the rule could never be numerous enough to affect the general balance between American and Canadian producers of food staples. Always the better opportunities and the larger profits would be found on this side of the border.

Oh, you Baltimore! And seven thousand Lynnhaven Bays, diamond back terrapin, canvasback ducks, Smithfield hams, five hundred and fifty quarts of champagne, et cetera, et cetera! And just to think of those lean days when we had a stale sandwich, a stalk of rusty celery, seven glasses of water and three hours of hot air for a dollar. The Old Ship of Zion, with a full belled Democracy aboard, is plowing the waves and is headed straight for Glory!—Houston Post.

Our Texas contemporary's enthusiasm is fully justified. It has always yearned with camp-meeting fervor for the initiation of a full dinner pail era of Democracy.

THE TARIFF AND JOINT RULES

Question Whether Action Can Be Made Binding Is One for Most Careful Consideration.

The present senate and house of representatives may pass rules to bind themselves in the handling of the tariff, by schedules, as Senator Cummins proposes, or by subjects, as Senator Aldrich seems to prefer, but can either, or both of them, bind the next congress by any rule whatever, or even bind themselves, of a majority of either house at any moment chooses to abandon the rule? There was a time when a joint rule, that is one passed by both houses, was supposed to have the force of a statute, un-reversible by either alone, but that theory died when the senate, in 1877, repealed the twenty-second joint rule for the purpose of opening the way to re-counting in of Rutherford B. Hayes as president of the United States. The twenty-second joint rule had been passed in 1855 providing the mode by which the electoral votes should be counted in the second election of Mr. Lincoln. There was nothing novel about it. It embodied the principles which had governed every count since the time of Washington. Its principles and methods would have been followed in the count then impending had no joint rule been passed at all. But, fearing that some unreconstructed southern state should come forward with a vote, it was framed and introduced by Senator Morton of Indiana to make sure that the objection of one house would be effective against it as it had always been. This joint rule was sent to Mr. Lincoln for his approval, and he returned it with his signature, but was careful to say that the matter was entirely within the jurisdiction of the two houses, and that the president had nothing to do with it.—New York Tribune.

Present Tariff Vindicated.

The preliminary report of the bureau of statistics at Washington shows that the year 1910 was a record-breaker as regards the total foreign trade of the United States. The aggregate was $3,427,218,000, against $2,346,596,000 in 1907, until now the greatest ever reached. The figures tell their own story of the commercial expansion of the country and of recovery from the business depression that culminated a little more than three years ago, and also refute a great many allegations made to discredit the protective tariff. Last year the exports were $1,864,411,000 and imports $1,562,807,000, while in 1907 the exports were $1,923,426,000 and the imports were $1,475,520,000. In other words, under the new tariff we have opened the door to many additional millions of dollars' worth of foreign products. Such a result certainly could not be attained if the tariff were really "prohibitive." The most gratifying feature of the showing is the large proportion of manufactures exported. This, too, shows we are making headway in capturing the most desirable patronage abroad. Sales in foreign lands of American products are no longer confined to agricultural products and "raw materials."

Taft and Canadian Reciprocity.

Nothing more encouraging has emanated from the White House for a long time than the authoritative understanding that the president will push the Canadian reciprocity plan with the next congress, which will have a Democratic house, if the present congress fails to act, or acts adversely on the proposition.

While it is not probable that an extra session would be called to ratify this reciprocity agreement, the intimation that such a thing might be done is not without consistent basis, for the prospects are that the agreement will be promptly ratified by the Canadian parliament, thus placing the responsibility for failure or delay in the establishing of better commercial relations between the two countries wholly on the Washington government.

This Canadian agreement is likely to precipitate a fair, striking test of the present congress on the tariff question as modified by national dissatisfaction with the existing law, just as the final terms of the tariff commission bill will furnish another test.

Tribute to Ex-Senator Cockrell.

Much has been said of the retirement of Messrs. Aldrich and Hale from the senate and public life, but another man of distinguished services is passing from the field and almost unnoticed. This is former Senator Cockrell of Missouri, whose successor, C. C. McChord, has just been appointed on the interstate commerce commission. In his seventy-sixth year, after 36 years of public service in Washington, he is once more a private citizen. A politician of the old school, he is almost the last link left with the legislation of reconstruction days. Senator Cockrell was never a malignant partisan and it was because of the universal esteem in which he was held that President Roosevelt honored him with a place on the interstate commerce commission.

Bryan Still to Be Reckoned With.

Mr. Bryan slyly gets even with that Baltimore Democratic conference and joy dinner, where he was ignored and from which he was conspicuous by absence. The issue of his Commoner following the Baltimore affair had a lot of interesting news about Democratic doings all over the country, but never a mention of the hobnobbing at Baltimore. And it is safe to assume that several thousands of Mr. Bryan's readers will understand why and govern themselves accordingly.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Make Plans to Beautify the Capital

WASHINGTON.—One decided step toward making the national capital the most beautiful city in the world architecturally was taken recently when the designs for three great buildings for the federal government were selected. Fifty-nine architects from all over the country competed. The buildings will cost nearly $5,000,000, and are to be erected on Pennsylvania avenue, facing the White House grounds. They will house the department of state, the department of justice and the department of commerce and labor.

The spaces that these great structures will occupy were selected nearly a century and a quarter ago. Major L'Enfant, a French engineer, laid out the plan of Washington in 1793. It is said he so arranged the streets that it would be impossible, in case of riot or insurrection, for barricades to be built, as they were in Paris in the days of the Terror. On his plan he designated various places where the great public buildings of the future should be put. For nearly half a hundred years Major L'Enfant was regarded as an impractical dreamer, although his street plan was adhered to.

It was only after the civil war, that people began to realize in a small way that his vision of the future greatness of the nation's capital was likely to come true some day. But even up to ten years or so ago his plans slumbered in the archives of the government. Then they were taken out and studied in the light of modern development, and it was found they could not be improved upon, and that if they were carried out in every detail Washington would surpass every other city in the world in beauty.

The completion of these ancient plans of this French engineer is still far away, for it will take many years and much money to accomplish them in all their details. But the three massive buildings whose location was designated so long ago will be the most important step toward their fulfillment that has been taken since the capitol was erected.

Need of Hog Cholera Serum Reported

THE bureau of animal industry of the agricultural department expresses the hope that many state legislatures will take up the question of providing for the production of the government hog cholera serum. The federal experts are convinced of the efficacy of this serum. They believe that if the proper effort is put forth by states hog cholera will be eradicated.

State officials who display interest in the subject are asked to send representatives to the bureau's experiment farm, at Ames, Ia., where the methods of producing the serum are explained. It is also the policy of the bureau to furnish a limited amount of the serum and a few immune hogs to the states that are just starting in the work. Within the last year practical demonstrations of what may be accomplished through the use of this new serum have been successfully carried out in Maryland, Virginia, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Style of Street Letter Box Changed

AFTER witnessing many experiments with new designs and automatic time registers, American cities are soon to have an entirely new style of street letter box. Its exact shape and principle of operation is not yet announced by the postoffice department, but experiments have gone so far that an early decision is expected upon the precise type of box that is to be used.

The unsightly green box that graces the top of the iron post at the street corner now has long been an unsatisfactory receptacle for street mail, the authorities say. Compared with the post boxes of foreign cities, it is wholly inartistic. Considered in the light of an economical device, it is a failure, for it wastes the time of the mail collector in getting the mail out of it, and it often tries the patience of the patron of the mails by effectually concealing the time when the next collection is to be made.

Four things have been taken into consideration in trying to adopt a design for a new street letter box. The first is that of economy of time for the collector. Instead of having to open the box from the side and remove the contents by hand, the department wants a box that will open and discharge its contents into a sack with a single operation.

In searching for this the question of the artistic appearance of the box has by no means been overlooked. If a new box is to be adopted, the postal authorities are determined that it shall combine as much grace and beauty in its appearance as it is possible to give such a utilitarian object.

An indestructible time card and an automatic indicator that will show the time at which the next collection is to be made are the two other points that have been given consideration. The first becomes unnecessary if the automatic indicator works satisfactorily, but the experiments thus far made by the postoffice department have not developed an automatic device sufficiently trustworthy, to put in to use on the street letter boxes.

Uncle Sam to Have Aeroplane Fleet

A Fleet of aeroplanes for the United States army is now apparently an assured fact as the result of action by the house of representatives in appropriating $125,000 for this purpose. There is the possibility that the senate may strike out the item, but even then it would have a splendid chance of remaining in the bill in conference, for it was adopted almost unanimously by the house.

This means the signal corps can have the 20 aeroplanes for which Brig. Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the army, asked in his annual report, and still have $25,000 left for equipment, stations, etc.

Brigadier General Allen has planned to have about six of these stations, equipped with an aeroplane each, in various places throughout the country, chiefly on the seacoast. He has estimated that each station, with its machine, will cost for the first year

$10,000. If it is decided to use the money in this way the machines at these stations could be used with the other 14 that could be purchased within the appropriation at the ten annual joint camps of instruction during the summer months, so that the regulars and militia might learn to operate them.

Representative James R. Mann of Illinois declared that this country was the father of the aeroplane, but when we had provided the most powerful and most economical machine of modern times for warfare we stopped. Today other nations are profiting by our ingenuity. We are discussing the aeroplane now just as our forefathers may have discussed the steam engine years ago.

England has several dirigible airships and aeroplanes for her army and navy. Germany has 14 dirigibles and several aeroplanes and a detachment of airship troops. France has seven dirigibles, 30 aeroplanes and six companies of airship troops. Russia has six dirigibles and three aeroplanes. Italy has recently appropriated $2,000,000 for dirigible airships, aeroplanes and bases from which they will operate.

THE LIME LIGHT

DUKE IS TO GOVERN CANADA

the Fenian raid of 1870. He is grand master of the Free Masons of England. Besides the title by which he is commonly known he is the Earl of Sussex, a prince of the United Kingdom and of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and duke of Saxony. His wife was Princess Louisa Margaret of Prussia.

Various reports have been current from time to time, particularly from Canadian sources, that the duke of Connaught would not be the next governor general of Canada, although on the original announcement of his appointment, shortly after the death of King Edward, it was officially stated that it had been the wish of the late king that the duke of Connaught, his brother, should go to Canada as governor general.

FOE OF CHILDHOOD'S ENEMY

rate is not so high as in cerebrospinal meningitis, the train of permanent deformities which follow infantile paralysis makes the disease fully as much dreaded. Only about four or five per cent. of those attacked succumb, but fully 80 per cent. of the cases result in permanent paralysis.

Infantile paralysis is a comparatively new disease. Its symptoms have been described in medical literature for about 25 years, but only in the last four years, since the epidemic of 1907, has it been brought strongly to the attention of the profession in America.

SHIRE HORSE ESSENTIALLY ENGLISH FARMERS' OWN

Animal Has Improved Vastly in Recent Years, in Uniformity of Type, in Feet, Action, Pasterns and Quality of Hair and Bone.

English Shire Mare and Colt.

(By G. T. BARROWS, England.)

The Shire horse is essentially the English farmer's own. Across the border the Clydesdale holds sway. It is flattering to the English breeder to know that America and Canada are now taking more Shires than they have ever done before.

England today is being constantly scored by American buyers for the right kind of Shire horses.

The English Shire horse has improved vastly of recent years, in uniformity of type, in feet, action and has vastly better pasterns and quality of hair and bone.

The farmer's brood mare—the rent payer—is a real feminine type, namely, neither of the gelding or the stallion appearance. She is always mated to a stallion of great masculinity, possessing good, wide, strong feet, and is naturally a free mover, with flat, sound bone, of strong constitution and as big as possible.

In the large studs the greatest care is taken over the matter of suitable stallions selected. Very few travelling stallions are to be found without a veterinary surgeon's certificate of soundness.

If anything, some of the farmers who have found breeding a rapid means of acquiring wealth, are inclined to get quality at the expense of weight and substance. Shows are the best advertisement that the English tenant-farmer has for getting rid of his wares to the landlord or the rich breeder.

Shows in an English summer are as plentiful as sparrows. They are held upon the slightest provocation, where two or three horse breeders are gathered together.

One of the most gratifying features of the Shire horse breeding in the old country, is that the rich man settles in the locality, or suddenly becomes prominent as a breeder of first-class animals. He spends no end of money on buying and maturing.

These often fall into the hands of the farmer cheaply, and very often the farmer sells back their offspring at considerable prices.

Shire service is cheap in England, when one considers the enormous outlay of some of the breeders, and the tenant farmer, or the farmer whose land is only rented, has all the benefits of his rich proprietor's patronage.

The old country may have old-fashioned ways, but the farmer knows when he is well off and he knows that to raise Shire horses successfully is to have a bank balance and to have no haunting fears from a disastrous season.

HORSE SHOEING IS SCIENCE

No Man Is Fully Equipped for Task Unless He Understands Anatomy of Animal's Foot—Advance Being Made.

By WM. J. KELLY.

Formerly the ordinary blacksmith, who knew very little about the underlying principles that should govern horse shoeing, was called upon to shoe horses. As a result very much of the work done was inferior and such work reacted in many instances against the usefulness of the horse that was thus shod.

The advance that has been made in this branch of blacksmithing during recent years, has been very great.

The work of shoeing horses is so variable in its requirements that no small degree of skill is required on the part of those engaged in the business.

It would perhaps be correct to say that no horse shoer is fully equipped for his work who does not understand considerable about the anatomy of the horse's foot. He should also be able to detect defects in the animal's locomotion and should know how to shoe the horse in such a way that the evils arising from these defects will be lessened or overcome entirely.

Neighborhood Exchanges.

The difficulty of exchanging tools and labor with neighbors is in the personality. Some men will expect to use borrowed tools all through the favorable weather and then return them in a damaged condition too late to be of much use to the owner. In borrowing labor this kind of neighbor will work the hired man half to death and then in returning the labor spend half his time telling stories. In exchanging labor or anything else pick out a farmer who will practice the golden rule.

New Mint Region.

Peppermint growers of New York and Michigan will meet competition from the reclaimed lands of Louisiana. A distillation plant is also in operation. A party of expert agriculturists recently inspecting the region were convinced that the crop can be grown in limited quantities at a good profit. Peppermint oil was imported into the United States during the fiscal year to the extent of 1,238 pounds, worth $6,416, while the exports of American peppermint oil amounted to 161,811 pounds, worth $288,318.

PRACTICAL ARCHED ROOF BARN

The accompanying plan of arched roof will not need any bracing, providing it is built on a wood frame. If placed on a concrete wall it would need to be fastened to the wall in some manner. This arch could be made out of one-inch lumber, three ply thick, using eight pieces. These will be a trifle shorter than eight feet. Cut outside to circle of 20 feet radius. It will be a little stronger by leaving inside straight. These should be placed about two feet centers. Nail on outlook like shown on plan for cornice. You can make them out of two-inch by eight-inch the same length, which takes a little more lumber, and we do not consider they would be as strong.

It would be better to use a 3 by 8 inch or a 3 by 6 inch bolted on to underside of ridge to fasten track to, as this would bring the load on two or three rafters.

CURED HER BABY OF ECZEMA

"I can't tell in words how happy the word 'Cuticura' sounds to me, for it cured my baby of itching, torturing eczema. It first came when she was between three and four weeks old, appearing on her head. I used everything imaginable and had one doctor's bill after another, but nothing cured it. Then the eczema broke out so badly behind her ear that I really thought her ear would come off. For months I doctored it but to no avail. Then it began at her nose and her eyes were nothing but sores. I had to keep her in a dark room for two weeks. The doctor did no good, so I stopped him coming.

"For about two weeks I had used Cuticura Soap for her every day, then I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and began to use that. In a week there was a marked improvement. In all I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and my baby was cured of the sores. This was last November; now her hair is growing out nicely and she has not a scar on her. I can not praise Cuticura enough, I can take my child anywhere and people are amazed to see her without a sore. From the time she was four weeks old until she was three years she was never without the terrible eruption, but now, thanks to Cuticura, I have a well child." (Signed) Mrs. H. E. Householder, 2004 Wilhelms St., Baltimore, Md., May 10, 1910.

Runs on the Bank of England. Even the Bank of England has not been entirely free from runs nor from the necessity of saving itself by strategy. In 1745, for instance, it was forced to employ agents to present notes, which were paid as slowly as possible in sixpences, the cash being immediately brought in by another door and paid in again, while anxious holders of notes vainly tried to secure attention. In 1825 too only the accidental discovery of 700,000 £1 notes saved the bank from stopping payment.—London Chronicle.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of known composition. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Y., and will become a stranger. We were pleased to meet our old friend and hope he may be happy and contented in his new home.

Last Dance

The last dance of the season was given by the Emporium Social Club at the opera house, Tuesday evening. A large crowd was in attendance. The usual three piece orchestra furnished the music. The first dance was given October 9th, 1910 and nine dances have been given. All of the affairs have been most successful and pleasing.

Births.

Last Friday morning at eight o'clock, a baby boy weighing 9 1/2 pounds, arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Taggart. Mother and son are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl McGee are rejoicing over the arrival of a little daughter, whose birth occurred last week. All concerned, including Carl, are getting along all O. K.

We have in Colorado the most advanced laws of any State in the Union for the care and protection of the home and the children, the very foundation of the Republic. We owe this more to woman suffrage than to any other one cause.—Judge Lindsey, of the Denver Juvenile Court.

It cannot be shown that there are any large number of women in this country who have not the necessary time to vote intelligently.—Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer, ex-President of Wellesley College.

Surprise Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Graham, two of our very highly respected colored citizens, were given a very agreeable surprise on Washington's Birthday. The entertainment was unique and pleasing. The singing, (and who can sing sweeter than the colored folks), commenced with "Marching Through Georgia," carrying flags in the march. They also had a cherry tree and some one who had never told a lie to cut it down, a child of Robt. Johnson being selected for the job. A part of the tree was then used for a centre piece, with a hatchet stuck in it. The company brought all the good things and made the surprise a great success.

Edward Barker, who spent the past ten days in town, looking after his real estate interests, also visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Barker, Jr., and family, returned to his home at Ispeming, Mich., on Monday morning. He sold his West Fourth street property to Augustus Whitmer.

Miss Anna A. L. Evers passed through here last Saturday on her way to Beechwood, where she remained over Sunday to visit with her parents, two sisters and only brother. Miss Evers, who was graduated from our High School here several years ago, is now Superintendent of the Ernest Wende Hospital in Buffalo, where she has won many friends by her cheerful disposition and strict attention to duty. Her motto in life being, "hitch your wagon to a star," is without doubt the reason of her successful career. May she live long to enjoy the prosperity she deserves, is the wish of her many friends.

Bennett Leutze has returned from the Williamsport Hospital where he underwent an operation. We are glad to note that he is on the mend.

Mrs. John T. Hertig, who has been very seriously ill, is improving slowly at this writing.

Mrs. James McConeghy, of Coudersport, is spending the week in town, having been called here by the serious illness of her sister-in-law, Mrs. John T. Hertig.

Messrs. Edward Extrom, James Welsh and Sam Reed departed for Ispeming, Mich., on Tuesday morning, via Buffalo, where they have secured positions with the Pluto Powder company.

SYNOPSIS.

Howard Jeffries, banker's son, under the evil influence of Robert Underwood, a fellow-student at Yale, leads a life of dissipation, marries the daughter of a gambler who died in prison, and is disowned by his father. He tries to get work and fails. A former college chum makes a business proposition to Howard which requires $2,000 cash, and Howard is broke. Robert Underwood, who had been repulsed by Howard's wife, Annie, in his college days, and had once been engaged to Alicia, Howard's stepmother, has apartments at the Astoria, and is apparently in prosperous circumstances. Howard recalls a $250 loan to Underwood, that remains unpaid, and decides to ask him for the $2,000 he needs. Underwood, taking advantage of his intimacy with Mrs. Jeffries, Sr., becomes a sort of social highwayman. Discovering his true character she denies him the house.

CHAPTER IV.

The richly decorated reception rooms, brilliantly illuminated with soft incandescent lights artistically arranged behind banks of flowers, were filled with people. In the air was the familiar buzz always present in a room where each person is trying to speak at the same time. On all sides one heard fragments of inept conversation.

"So good of you to come! How well you're looking, my dear."

"My husband? Oh, he's at the club, playing poker, as usual. He hates music."

"I've such a terrible cold!"

"Trouble with servants? I should say so. I bounced my cook this morning."

"Aren't these affairs awfully tiresome?"

"I was so glad to come. I always enjoy your musicales."

"Dr. Bernstein coming? How perfectly delightful. I'll ask him for his autograph."

"What's psychology?"

"Something to do with religion, I think."

"Haven't we been having dreadful weather?"

"I saw you at the opera."

"Doesn't she look sweet?"

"Oh, I think it's just lovely."

People now arrived in quick succession and, forming little groups, the room soon presented an animated scene. The women in their smart gowns and the men in their black coats made a pleasing picture.

"My dear Mrs. Jeffries, how do you do this evening?" exclaimed a rich, deep voice.

The hostess turned to greet an elderly and distinguished-looking man who had just entered. Directly he came in voices were hushed, and on every side one heard the whisper:

"There's Judge Brewster, the famous lawyer."

There was a general craning of necks to catch a glimpse of the eminent jurist whose brilliant address to the jury in a recent cause celebre had saved an innocent man from the electric chair.

Richard Brewster was a fine example of the old school statesman-lawyer of the Henry Clay type. He belonged to that small class of public men who are independent of all coteries, whose only ambition is to serve their country well, who know no other duty than that dictated by their oath and conscience. A brilliant and forceful orator, there was no office in the gift of the nation that might not have been his for the asking, but he had no taste for politics. After serving with honor for some years on the bench he retired into private practice, and thereafter his name became one to conjure with in the law courts. By sheer power of his matchless oratory and unanswerable logic he won case after case for his clients and it is a tribute to his name to record the plain fact that in all his career he never championed a cause of which he need be ashamed. Powerful financial interests had attempted to secure his services by offers of princely retainers, but without success. He fought the trusts bitterly every time he found them oppressing his profession.

Alicia advanced with extended hand. "This is indeed kind, Judge," she exclaimed with a gracious smile. "I hardly dared hope that my poor musicale would be so honored."

The old lawyer smiled good-humoredly as he replied gallantly:

"I don't know much about music, m'm; I came to see you." Looking around he added: "You've got a nice place here."

He spoke in his characteristic manner—short, nervous, explosive sentences, which had often terrified his opponents in court.

"Lawyers are such flatterers," laughed Alicia as she nervously fanned herself, and looked around to see if her guests were watching.

"Lawyers only flatter when they want to," interrupted Mr. Jeffries, who had just joined the group.

Alicia turned to greet a new arrival and the lawyer continued chatting with his host.

"I suppose you'll take a rest now, after your splendid victory," said the banker.

"I Don't Know Much About Music, M'm."

Judge Brewster shook his head dubiously.

"No, sir, we lawyers never rest. We can't. No sooner is one case disposed of than another crops up to claim our attention. The trouble with this country is that we have too much law. If I were to be guilty of an epigram I would say that the country has so much law that it is practically lawless."

"So you're preparing another case, eh?" said Mr. Jeffries, interested.

"What is it—a secret?"

"Oh, no!" answered the lawyer, "the newspapers will be full of it in a day or two. We are going to bring suit against the city. It's really a test case that should interest every citizen; a protest against the high-handed actions of the police."

The banker elevated his eyebrows.

"Indeed," he exclaimed, "What have the police been doing now?"

The lawyer looked at his client in surprise.

"Why, my dear sir, you must have seen by the papers what's been going on in our city of late. The papers have been full of it. Police brutality, illegal arrests, assaults in station houses, star-chamber methods that would disgrace the middle ages. A state of affairs exists to-day in the city of New York which is inconceivable. Here we are living in a civilized country, every man's liberty is guaranteed by the constitution, yet citizens, as they walk our streets, are in greater peril than the inhabitants of terror-stricken Russia. Take a police official of Capt. Clinton's type. His only notion of the law is brute force and the night stick. A bully by nature, a man of the coarsest instincts and enormous physical strength, he loves to play the tyrant. In his precinct he poses as a kind of czar and fondly imagines he has the power to administer the law itself. By his brow-beating tactics, intolerable under Anglo-Saxon government, he is turning our police force into a gang of ruffians who have the city terror-stricken. In order to further his political ambitions he stops at nothing. He lets the guilty escape when influence he can't resist is brought to bear, but in order to keep up his record with the department he makes arrests without the slightest justification. To secure convictions he manufactures, with the aid of his detectives, all kinds of perjured evidence. To paraphrase a well-known saying, his motto is: 'Convict—honestly, if you can—but convict.'"

"It is outrageous," said Mr. Jeffries. "No one can approve such methods. Of course, in dealing with the criminal population of a great city, they cannot wear kid gloves, but Capt. Clinton certainly goes too far. What is the specific complaint on which the suit is based?"

"Capt. Clinton," replied the judge, "made the mistake of persecuting a young woman who happened to be the daughter of a wealthy client of mine. One of his detectives arrested her on a charge of shoplifting. The girl, mind you, is of excellent family and irreproachable character. My client and his lawyer tried to show Capt. Clinton that he had made a serious blunder, but he brazened it out, claiming on the stand that the girl was an old offender. Of course, he was forced at last to admit his mistake and the girl went free, but think of the humiliation and mental anguish she underwent! It was simply a repetition of his old tactics. A conviction, no matter at what cost.

"What do you hope to bring about by this suit?"

"Arouse public indignation, and if possible get Capt. Clinton dismissed from the force. His record is none too savory. Charges of graft have been made against him time and time again, but so far nothing has been proved. To-day he is a man of wealth on a comparatively small salary. Do you suppose his money could have come to him honestly?"

In another corner of the salon stood Dr. Bernstein, the celebrated psychologist, the center of an excited crowd of enthusiastic admirers.

Alicia approached a group of chattering women. Each was more elaborately dressed than her neighbor, and loaded down with rare gems. They at once stopped talking as their hostess came up.

"It was so good of you to come!" said Alicia effusively to a fat woman with impossible blonde hair and a rouged face. "I want to introduce Dr. Bernstein to you."

"Oh, I shall be delighted," smiled the blonde. Gushingly she added: "How perfectly exquisite you look to-night, my dear."

"Do you think so?" said Alicia, pleased at the clumsy flattery.

"Your dress is stunning and your tiara simply gorgeous," raved another. "Your musicales are always so delightful," exclaimed a third.

At that moment Mr. Jeffries caught his wife by the arm and drew her attention to some newcomers. With a laugh she left the group and hurried toward the door. Directly she was out of earshot, the three women began whispering:

"Isn't she terribly overdressed?" exclaimed the blonde. "The cheek of such a parvenue to wear that tiara!"

"Her face is all made up, too," said another.

"These affairs of hers are awfully stupid, don't you think so?" piped the third.

"Yes, they bore everybody to death," said the blonde. "She's ambitious and likes to think she is a social leader. I only come here because it amuses me to see what a fool she makes of herself. Fancy a woman of her age marrying a man old enough to be her father. By the by, I don't see her beau here to-night."

"You mean that scamp, Robert Underwood?"

"Isn't it perfectly scandalous, the way he dances after her? I'm surprised Mr. Jeffries allows him to come to the house."

"Maybe there's been a row. Perhaps that explains why he's not here to-night. It's the first time I've known him absent from one of her musicales."

"He's conspicuous by his absence. Do you know what I heard the other day? I was told that Underwood had again been caught cheating at cards and summarily expelled from the club—kicked out, so to speak."

"I'm not at all surprised. I always had my doubts about him. He induced a friend of mine to buy a picture, and got a tremendous price for it on the false representation that it was a genuine Corot. My friend found out afterward that he had been duped. Proceedings were threatened, but Underwood managed to hush the affair by returning part of the money."

In another part of the room a couple were discussing Mr. Jeffries as he stood talking with Judge Brewster.

"Did you notice how Mr. Jeffries has aged recently? He no longer seems the same man."

"No wonder, after all the trouble he's had. Of course you know what a disappointment his son turned out?"

"A scamp, I understand. Married a chorus girl and all that sort of thing."

"Not exactly, but almost as bad. The girl was a waitress or something like that in a restaurant. She's very common; her father died in prison. You can imagine the blow to old Jeffries. He turned the boy adrift and left him to shift for himself."

Alicia approached her husband, who was still talking with Judge Brewster. She was leaning on the arm of a tall, handsome man with a dark Van Dyke beard.

"Who are you discussing with such interest?" she demanded, as she came up with her escort.

"We were talking of Capt. Clinton and his detestable police methods," said the banker.

"Judge," said Alicia, turning to the lawyer, "allow me to introduce Dr. Bernstein. Doctor, this is Judge Brewster."

The stranger bowed low, as he replied courteously:

"The fame of Judge Brewster has spread to every state in the union."

A faint smile spread over the face of the famous lawyer as he extended his hand:

"I've often heard of you, too, doctor. I've been reading with great interest your book, 'Experimental Psychology.' Do you know," he went on earnestly, "there's a lot in that. We have still much to learn in that direction."

"I think," said Dr. Bernstein, quietly, "that we're only on the threshold of wonderful discoveries."

Pleased to find that her two distinguished guests were congenial, Alicia left them to themselves and joined her other guests.

"Yes," said the lawyer musingly, "man has studied for centuries the mechanism of the body, but he has neglected entirely the mechanism of the mind."

Dr. Bernstein smiled approvingly.

"We are just waking up," he replied quickly. "People are beginning to look upon psychology seriously. Up to comparatively recently the layman has regarded psychology as the domain of the philosopher and the dreamer. It did not seem possible that it could ever be applied to our practical everyday life, but of late we have made remarkable strides. Although it is a comparatively new science, you will probably be astonished to learn that there are to-day in the United States 50 psychological laboratories. That is to say, workshops fully equipped with every device known for the probing of the human brain. In my laboratory in California alone I have as many as twenty rooms hung with electric wires and equipped with all the necessary instruments—chronoscopes, kymograph, tachistoscopes and ergographs—instruments which enable us to measure and record the human brain as accurately as the Bertillon system."

"Really, you astonish me!" exclaimed the judge. "This is most interesting. Think of laboratories solely devoted to delving into mysteries of the human brain! It is wonderful!"

He was silent for a moment, then he said:

"It is quite plain, I think, that psychology can prove most useful in medicine. It is, I take it, the very foundation of mental healing, but what else would it do for humanity? For instance, can it help me, the lawyer?"

Dr. Bernstein smiled.

"You gentlemen of the law have always scoffed at the very suggestion of bringing psychology to your aid, but just think, sir, how enormously it might aid you in cross-examining a witness. You can tell with almost scientific accuracy if the witness is telling lies or the truth, and the same would be clear to the judge and the jury. Just think how your powers would be increased if by your skill in psychological observation you could convince the jury that your client, who was about to be convicted on circumstantial evidence alone, was really innocent of the crime of which he was charged. Why, sir, the road which psychology opens up to the lawyer is well-nigh boundless. Don't you use the Bertillon system to measure the body? Don't you rely on thumb prints to identify the hand? How do you know that we psychologists are not able to-day to test the individual differences of men?"

CANADA GETS $1,500 TROPHY.

NATIONAL CORN EXPOSITION, AT COLUMBUS, OHIO, AWARDS TROPHY FOR PECK OF OATS GROWN IN SASKATCHEWAN.

Again Canada is to the fore, and has secured at the National Corn Exposition just closed at Columbus, Ohio, the magnificent Colorado silver trophy valued at $1,500, for the best peck of oats. These oats were grown by Messrs. Hill & Son, of Lloydminster, Saskatchewan, and, as may readily be understood, were of splendid quality to have been so successful in a contest open to the world, and in which competition there were exhibits of wheat and barley, and in all these competitions, the grain shown by Canada secured a wonderful amount of attention, and also a number of awards. During recent exhibitions at which grain from Western Canada was given permission for entry, it always took first place. At the Spokane Interstate Fair, last fall, where the entries were very large, and the competition keen, the Province of Alberta carried off the silver cup, given by Governor Hay, for the best state or province display, and a score of prizes was awarded Canadian exhibitors for different exhibits of wheat, oats and barley threshed and in the sheaf. Vegetables also received high awards. A pleasing feature of these exhibits was they were mostly made by farmers who had at one time been American Citizens and were now farming in Canada. The Department of the Interior is just in receipt of a magnificent diploma given by the Tri-State Board of Examiners at the Fair held in Cincinnati last fall for agricultural display by Canada.

The Surveyor-General of Canada has just completed a map showing that a large area of land was surveyed last year in the northern portion of Saskatchewan and Alberta in order to be ready for the rush of homesteaders to that district during the coming spring and summer. It is understood surveys covering several hundreds of thousands of acres will be made in addition to these during the coming summer.

A return just issued by the Dominion Lands Branch shows that 48,257 homestead entries were made last year as compared with 37,061 in 1909; of this 48,257, 14,704 were made by Americans. North Dakota coming first on the list with 4,810, Minnesota gives 2,528, South Dakota 1,133, Wisconsin 745, Washington 730, Michigan 706, Iowa 645, while other states show less, but with the exception of Delaware, District of Columbia and the Indian Territory, every state and territory contributed.

The prospects for an abundant crop in all parts of Western Canada for 1911 are said to be excellent. In the districts that required it there was an ample rainfall last autumn, and the snowfall during the present winter is greater than in many previous years. Both are essential factors to the farmers, who look upon the moisture that these will produce as being highly beneficial.

A large immigration from the United States is expected, and the demand for literature and information from the various Government Agencies located at different points in the States is the greatest it has ever been.

Since the above was written word has been received that in addition to honors won at Columbus, Ohio, Canada won first and second on wheat and first and second on oats, as well as diplomas.

Norman Cherry of Davis, Saskatchewan, who was in the reserve for first on wheat, secured the award, with G. H. Hutton of Lacombe, Alberta, second. J. C. Hill & Sons got first on oats besides the silver trophy. G. H. Hutton took second in oats.

Story That Contains a Moral It Might Be Well to Keep in Memory.

A little King Charles dog, a pet in a family where he had been the playmate of a little boy, slipped through an open door some time ago and disappeared. Servants and the children of the house searched everywhere, asked questions at all places where he was thought possible the dog might be in hiding, but to no avail, and the animal was finally given up for lost and there was deep mourning in the nursery. One day recently the woman who owned the dog met a neighbor at a florist's shop, who had on a leash a dog strangely like the lost pet, and asked where he came from. "Why, he ran into our house a few days ago and we don't know where he belongs." The dog knew his old mistress and was quickly surrendered. "You might have had him sooner, had you advertised," said one woman. "And you could have found the owner sooner had you advertised," said the other—and the newspaper man who heard the story added the moral.

Always Worrying.

The late John H. Barker, of Michigan City, who left a fortune of over $30,000,000 to his 14-year-old daughter, was strongly opposed to speculation.

"Do not speculate," Mr. Barker once said in an address to young men. "Speculators stand on shaky ground. They know no peace."

Mr. Barker smiled. "In fact," he said, "a speculator is always worrying about the money market, while his wife is always worrying about the market money."

HEREDITY

Can Be Overcome in Cases.

The influence of heredity cannot, of course, be successfully disputed, but it can be minimized or entirely overcome in some cases by correct food and drink. A Conn. lady says:

"For years while I was a coffee drinker I suffered from bilious attacks of great severity, from which I used to emerge as white as a ghost and very weak. Our family physician gave me various prescriptions for improving the digestion and stimulating the liver, which I tried faithfully but without perceptible result."

"He was acquainted with my family history for several generations back, and once when I visited him he said: 'If you have inherited one of those torpid livers you may always suffer more or less from its inaction. We can't dodge our inheritance, you know.'"

"I was not so strong a believer in heredity as he was, however, and, beginning to think for myself, I concluded to stop drinking coffee, and see what effect that would have. I feared it would be a severe trial to give it up, but when I took Postum and had it well made, it completely filled my need for a hot beverage and I grew very fond of it."

"I have used Postum for three years, using no medicine. During all that time I have had absolutely none of the bilious attacks that I used to suffer from, and I have been entirely free from the pain and debilitating effects that used to result from them."

"The change is surely very great, and I am compelled to give Postum the exclusive credit for it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Foley Kidney Pills.

Just the right medicine for backache, rheumatism, Bright's disease and all urinary irregularities. C. C. Mackey, 811 Locust St., Williamsport, Pa., says: "For the last two years I have been afflicted with a severe case of kidney trouble. There were severe aching pains across my kidneys and back, my ankles pained me and were swollen up and I had shooting pains in my sides and other parts of the body. After taking five bottles of Foley Kidney Pills the pain in my back has vanished, the swelling in my ankles is gone and they are normal size and the shooting pains have been cured and I feel full of vitality and many years younger than before taking them. I cheerfully recommend Foley Kidney Pills. Sold by Emporium Drug Co."

BLUE BELL.

A Fierce Night Alarm

is the hoarse, startling cough of a child, suddenly attacked by croup. Often it awoke Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, O., [R. R. No. 2] for their four children were greatly subject to croup. "Sometimes in severe attacks," he wrote "we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup and for coughs, colds or any throat or lung trouble." So do thousands of others. So may you. Asthma, Hay Fever, LaGrippe, Whooping Cough, Hemorrhages fly before it. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Sold by all druggists.

DRIFTWOOD.

A very interesting program was conducted by the Literary Society, of the Driftwood Schools, on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 23. The day had been chosen as Patron's Day, and that the patrons were interested was shown by the number who attended the exercises. Among others present were Rev. Father Mc-Avenue, Rev. Runyan, Mrs. Runyan and Miss Ethel Runyan, of Sinnamahoning; Rev. Graham and Mrs. Graham, of Penfield. Rev. Runyan gave a short address to the children and Rev. and Mrs. Graham greatly pleased all by singing a duet.

Revival Meetings, which have been held in the Union Church of this place during the past two weeks, closed on Sunday evening with a large number present. Rev. Runyan was assisted by Rev. and Mrs. Graham, of Penfield, during the greater part of the last week. Both Mr. and Mrs. Graham are beautiful singers and have added greatly to the benefit of these meetings.

The Social held in the Ladies Aid Hall on Saturday evening for the benefit of Driftwood Schools, was a decided success both financially and socially. About fifty-five ($55) dollars was taken in and after expenses are paid, a nice sum will still be left for the benefit of the schools.
